Our mission is to support families with hope and solutions beyond survival.

Our services remove the stigma of mental health services for families, caregivers, those grieving with support services introducing counseling services to families with professional counselors and support processes as a way of life.

Juneteenth

A CELEBRATION OF FREEDOM

June 19th, also known as Juneteenth, commemorates the end of slavery in Texas, a full two and a half years after President Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation.

Juneteenth marks the date in 1865 when Union soldiers, led by Major General Gordon Granger, landed in Galveston, Texas, with news that the war was over and slavery had been abolished.

For more than 150 years, communities across the country and in parts of Mexico have fought for and observed this holiday. Today, these communities celebrates and honor the work of Black activists through the ages.

LET'S TALK INPOWERMEANT!

Family Reunification

The tenacles of guilt, the demise of self-worth and value, and family wounds and pain are often untreated because of embarrassment, guilt, religious abuse, and victim bashing.

There are four (4) types of abuse in intimate partner violence and human trafficking is:

- Physical,
- Sexual,
- Emotional,
- and Economic.

Preventing domestic violence involves proactive efforts to stop abuse from happening in the first place by interrupting the cultural rules and constructs that support it.
